Government Actuary's Department appoints new non-executive director

Jane May has been appointed as a non-executive director to the Board of the Government Actuary's Department (GAD).

As a non-executive Board Member, Jane will play a key role in supporting and constructively challenging executive members of the Board, and will provide an external perspective to the Government Actuary on governance and the strategic direction of the Department's work.

Welcoming Jane, Trevor Llanwarne, the Government Actuary, said: "With her private sector experience, particularly in the areas of business development and customer relations, Jane will be a valuable addition to the Board and I am delighted that she has joined us". Trevor also thanked Jan Smith whose contract as a non-executive director came to an end in December.

Editor's notes

1 Jane May has a wide range of experience, with a strong track record in business and strategic development, marketing and customer relations, including successful spells at Thames Water Utilities and Sears Group. She is also a non executive director at OFWAT and the Information Commissioner's Office and she is the Chair of the Berkshire Autistic Society. She has formerly held non executive posts at the Office of Rail Regulation, the Public Guardianship Office and at SITA Trust.

2 The Government Actuary's Department (GAD) provides actuarial analysis for the public sector from the public sector, and has been working within government for almost a century. GAD offers actuarial services to governments and public sector organisations, in the UK and around the world, covering pensions, social security and insurance. Based in London, GAD employs 140 people, of whom 60 are qualified actuaries.
